AGREEMENT IS NEXT

Will Apply Party Principle In Navy Reduction

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The first step toward naval reduction may be an Anglo-American agreement equalizing cruiser strength, or combined cruiser-and-destroyer strength, of Great Britain and the United States by application of the so-called "Hoover yardstick," informed officials revealed today.

President Hoover and Premier MacDonald may reach such an agreement across a study-table here in October, now that one great obstacle has been removed by the accord reached in London on the principle of parity in all categories of fighting ships. Secretary of State Stimson has characterized this agreement as "imensely important."

The first step in putting this agreement into practice is to apply the parity principle to cruisers, the main controversial point between the two nations, officials said. Whether the Hoover-MacDonald conversations will complete this step can only be conjectured.

President Hoover's plan for a "yardstick" or formula to equalize British and American naval strength, making allowances for the greater number of small cruisers desired by Britain as against the United States' larger ships, was believed partly instrumental in clearing the way for the parity agreement.

Now if a formula satisfactory to both nations can be drafted by October, when Premier MacDonald is coming to discuss the naval reduction with Mr. Hoover, the way would be clear for an agreement, officials believe.

An Anglo-American agreement would not interfere with the proposed League of Nations disarmament parley, toward which British and American governments have evidenced a friendly attitude with the 1931 conference to be called by the United States under the provisions of the 1922 five-power naval limitation treaty.

On the other hand, some observers believe Mr. Hoover and MacDonald will merely lay the groundwork for a formal conference to follow theirs. Mr. Hoover, Ambassador Dawes and Secretary Stimson, however, have all evidenced a fondness for personal across-the-table diplomacy during their short terms in office.

The "yardstick" formula merely will set off a certain number of the United States' new 10,000-ton cruisers, with certain "weights" for age, speed, guns, armor, and other factors, against a larger number of smaller British cruisers with weights given for each similar factor.

It may be futile to try to make two fleets equal in military value, but as Secretary Stimson said in a statement on parity, "this is not a doctrine of warfare but of statesmanship," and "it does not look to a future combat between these two fleets but has the opposite purpose, namely, to prevent such a conflict."

Observers pointed out today that any conceivable agreement is not likely to result in actual scrapping of any of the few American cruisers, because of the great preponderance of the British fleet which has approximately sixty-two ships of this type, built, bought and appropriated for.

This was apparently foreseen by Mr. Hoover when he announced the temporary suspension of construction on three 10,000-ton eight-inch gun cruisers not yet paid down, saying the relief from a naval reduction might not come until toward the end of the fifteen-cruiser program authorized in the 1928 law.

THREE KILLED WHEN TRAIN HITS AUTO

NORWALK, O., July 26.—Triple funeral services will be held for three members of one family, killed at Ceylon, near here, late yesterday when their automobile was struck by a New York Central flyer.

The victims were Arthur Lockwood, 50, his wife, May, 47, and a daughter, Alice, 15. Another daughter, Mable, 7, will recover although she was seriously injured.

A standing freight train apparently obscured Lockwood's view of the approaching passenger train when he drove onto the tracks. Danger lights at the crossing were obscured.

The Lockwoods were en route to a Sunday school picnic at Vermilion when the tragedy occurred.

POLICE ARREST SIX IN PERUVIAN PLOT

LIMA, Peru, July 26.—The newspaper La Prensa published an article today saying the police had uncovered a plot against the government and had arrested a senator, a deputy and four other principals, and seized incriminating documents. Other arrests were expected.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 26.—A motor that refused to wear out and two men determined to outlast it held the St. Louis-Robin in the air here today after 308 consecutive hours of flying.

"All O. K." was the word from Dale Jackson and Forrest O'Brien, pilots, at 4:17 a. m. (E. S. T.) as they rounded out sixty-one hours sixteen minutes and twenty-eight seconds more than the record they had set yesterday.

The state is divided as follows under the present plan:

Northeastern district: Cuyahoga, Medina, Ashland, Wayne, Summit, Stark, Portage, Columbiana, Mahoning, Trumbull, Geauga, Lake and Ashtabula Counties. Inspector Frank Lytle is district supervisor.

Northwestern district: Lucas, Lorain, Huron, Erie, Richland, Crawford, Marion, Wyandot, Seneca, Sandusky, Ottawa, Fulton, Henry, Putnam, Allen, Van Wert, Paulding, Defiance and Williams Counties. Inspector W. L. Lewis is supervisor.

Southwestern district: Hamilton, Clermont, Clinton, Warren, Butler, Preble, Montgomery, Greene, Fayette, Madison, Clarke, Champaign, Miami, Delaware, Darke, Shelby, Logan, Union, Auglaize and Mercer Counties. Inspector Lamar Wilson is supervisor.

East-central district: Knox, Licking, Holmes, Coshocton, Muskingum, Guernsey, Noble, Monroe, Belmont, Jefferson, Harrison, Carroll, Tuscarawas, and Coshonton Counties. Inspector John Hayes is supervisor.

South-central district: Franklin, Pickaway, Fairfield, Perry, Morgan, Hocking, Washington, Athens, Vinton, Meigs, Gallia, Jackson, Lawrence, Scioto, Pike, Adams, Brown, Highland and Ross Counties. Inspector Norman O. Whittin is supervisor.

"Both are 'feeling fine and getting fat,'" they assured ground watchers in a message dropped last night. "The old motor hasn't changed a bit, that I can see," Jackson added.

Five hundred hours appeared to their goal, and they had the assurance of Arthur Nutt, designer of their Challenger motor that from the sound of their power unit that was not unattainable.

Weather as usual continued so calm that no one gave it much thought. It was slightly hazy over the field early today, but the Robins soared lazily at 3,500 feet.

Stamina of the two men has begun to cause as much comment as the rugged reliability of their motor. They eat only two meals a day, prepared by their wives, and drink milk instead of coffee.

"Well, Shorty (P. M. Chaffee of the refueling crew), how are things on the ground?" read a note dropped by Jackson last night.

"I'll bet it's hot, as we have to stay around 4000 feet to be cool."

"The old motor hasn't changed a bit that I can see. Seems like it runs a lot easier. No vibration at all. With a light load we can fly at 12,750 to 13,000 R. P. M. (propeller revolutions per minute), the only work it gets is refueling and that not very long."

In a post-script, Jackson added: "Obie snoring again. That fellow sure can sleep."

An earlier note, likewise dropped by Jackson, informed the ground crews that he "sure was in a fine place between this motor and the sleeping Obie." "Can't tell which makes more noise," he said, "but can easily tell them apart as Obie vibrates more at high speed."

Statisticians have figured the St. Louis-Robin thus far has gone the equivalent of around the world via a 17,000 mile course from New York West to San Francisco, Honolulu, Tokyo, Constantinople, Madrid and New York.

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., July 26.—The surprising thing to me is that everywhere in America there is a superstition that it is against the law for a man to dress comfortably in hot weather.

Cartoonists bolster up the superstition by drawing cartoons of pajama-clad males being chased by policemen. A preacher mounted his pulpit last Sunday and denounced me for dressing contrary to holy writ. Where do they get that stuff?

My suggestion to men everywhere who approve of more liberty in clothes for men is to give pajamas a modest try out. If they are not quite enthusiastic enough to wear them openly, let them slip into their pajamas these hot summer evenings and go for a motor ride; dare to sit on their porches in pajamas; organize pajama parties. And when a considerable number of males everywhere have taken this step, garment makers and designers will get busy and new and delightful styles in men's summer apparel will be created.

Being a gregarious animal and friendly toward the herd, I shall hesitate to discard my palm beaches and tropical worsteds all at once; my work — and on the streets when the weather is unbearably hot, I expect to be in New York City next Monday and if Mayor Walker should be persuaded to issue a proclamation similar to that issued by the mayor of Elizabeth City this week, I shall be delighted to make myself comfortable on Broadway in pajamas, just as I have in Elizabeth City.

Women have within the past quarter century boldly asserted their rights and thrown off the bonds of bustles and corsets, camisoles and petticoats, long skirts, high top shoes and starched undies. The American woman today with her sheer one piece frock, a skimpy step-in, silk hose and lightweight soft leather shoes is the best dressed woman in the world and thoroughly comfortable.

The fool men go right on wearing woolen coats and trousers, collars around their necks and heavy leather shoes, all through the summer. Possibly they have hesitated to seek reform through a baseless superstition that it is against the law for them to dare to be different.

He came into court armed with a sheath of newspapers, removed his coat, sat down with his lawyers and went to work as if he were one of them and not the defendant.

He carefully studied the list of jurors, took their identities and made notations for future use. His lawyers seemed to give weight to his whispered words.

"I know little about procedure," he told newspapermen.

"This is not his first appearance in court. Several years ago a spinner living here, on her death willed him a valuable bit of land. Her relatives contested the will alleging undue influence and won.

Snook told court attendants he was not permitted to have the newspapers were not giving him an even break."

"I can't see anyway what all these reports at the trial find there to interest anyone," he said.

Snook is not permitted to have newspapers in jail and his information as to what the papers are publishing comes to him indirectly. His reading matter is confined to books and magazines.

Developments yesterday which foreshadowed testimony of a highly lurid type drew a big crowd today, with many standing in the court room in addition to the 150 seated. As previously, women dominated the crowd.

The day's session began with eleven temporary jurors passed. Mrs. Louis Rogers was quickly disqualified as was Jay R. Sawyer, railroad man. Russell M. Ober, an engineer, required four examinations before attorneys found his wife and seven sisters and they wanted to know the family history of each. He was excused for bias.

Joe B. Collison, a retired druggist, also required much time.

Intimations that writers of crank letters are at work entered the questioning.

The state's attorneys objected.

"I have," expostulated Attorney John F. Seidel.

"I received a threat in the mail this morning."

The court reprimanded the attorney.

"Make no such statements as that in this court," Judge Henry Scarlett warned.

Consider Plans To Divide Ohio Into Four Districts

COLUMBUS, O., July 26.—Plans are under consideration by the state prohibition department for dividing the state into four districts for enforcement purposes, as an improvement over the present system of five districts, Deputy Prohibition Commissioner W. V. Aldrich announced today.

The present system of five districts, with a state inspector in charge of each as supervisor, was put into operation a month ago.

Four state prohibition inspectors are assigned to each district, under direction of the supervisor.

The five-district plan has worked so satisfactorily that Commissioner Rupert R. Beetham and Aldrich are planning now to inaugurate the four-district system. This would have the added advantage of making available several inspectors for roving assignments.

The state is divided as follows under the present plan:

Northeastern district: Cuyahoga, Medina, Ashland, Wayne, Summit, Stark, Portage, Columbiana, Mahoning, Trumbull, Geauga, Lake and Ashtabula Counties. Inspector Frank Lytle is district supervisor.

Northwestern district: Lucas, Lorain, Huron, Erie, Richland, Crawford, Marion, Wyandot, Seneca, Sandusky, Ottawa, Fulton, Henry, Putnam, Allen, Van Wert, Paulding, Defiance and Williams Counties. Inspector W. L. Lewis is supervisor.

South-central district: Hamilton, Clermont, Clinton, Warren, Butler, Preble, Montgomery, Greene, Fayette, Madison, Clarke, Champaign, Miami, Delaware, Darke, Shelby, Logan, Union, Auglaize and Mercer Counties. Inspector Lamar Wilson is supervisor.

East-central district: Knox, Licking, Holmes, Coshocton, Muskingum, Guernsey, Noble, Monroe, Belmont, Jefferson, Harrison, Carroll, Tuscarawas, and Coshocton Counties. Inspector John Hays is supervisor.

East-central district: Franklin, Pickaway, Fairfield, Perry, Morgan, Hocking, Washington, Athens, Vinton, Meigs, Gallia, Jackson, Lawrence, Scioto, Pike, Adams, Brown, Highland and Ross Counties. Inspector Norman O. Whithorn is supervisor.

would hinge much of its case upon a charge that Theora Hix administered aphrodisiac drugs to her college professor-lover, were met today by announcement that the state would combat vigorously any attempt to besmirch the girl's character.

"We most certainly will oppose any attempt to drag down the good name of Miss Hix," Prosecutor John J. Chester, Jr., told the United Press.

The defense suggested by its questions to prospective jurors that it would attempt to show that Miss Hix first became interested in the course of her studies in the university medical department, in the effect upon human beings of various drugs. Dr. Snook, the defense indicated it would claim, became the subject for her experimentation and she is alleged to have given him powerful excitants, at least sometimes allegedly without his knowledge. Under the effects of an administration of one of these drugs, the defense contends, the professor became unable to control his emotions, and when she crossed him, murder was done.

Unfolding of this theory kept yesterday's court session intensely interested. The spectators, mostly half young women, leaned forward in their seats, eagerly listening to every word. It is expected to draw a still larger crowd today.

Defense attorneys, questioning prospective jurors yesterday asked if the salesman would be prejudiced, if it were shown that Miss Hix experimented with the effects of various drugs—namely not only cocaine but a series of aphrodisiacs—and in the course of her experiments also took these drugs herself.

It was even intimated that the source of the drugs might have been the laboratory rooms of the university, to which Dr. Snook and perhaps Miss Hix herself, had access under certain conditions. One of the drugs named is used extensively in the treatment of animals, which was the particular sphere of Dr. Snook as a professor of veterinary medicine.

Melvin T. Hix, father of the murdered Theora, was more calm yesterday. Some of the tension of the opening session seemed to be gone. He and Mrs. Hix, the latter a quiet, well controlled woman, had their personal attorney with them at the session.

The courtroom was hot, and a local firm was permitted to distribute fans to lawyers, jurors, the press and many of the spectators, during the afternoon.

The questioning of jurors dealt with matters which ten years ago probably would have driven women from the courtroom. But no one left as the legal niceties of terms regarding the most intimate of relationships, the effects of various drugs and kindred subjects which are given no place around the family fireside, were bandied about. There was no tempering of the questioning when women were under examination as prospective jurors and they continued to reveal by their answers, a liberal viewpoint.

Outside of the courtroom the outstanding development of the day was the first public utterance of Mrs. Snook since she protested her faith in her husband immediately

This was the day's first reference to the defense theory that drugs were responsible for the alleged murder, upon which much stress was placed yesterday.

The audience was eager for a thrill and order had to be called by bailiffs, so excitedly did the spectators receive Collison's declaration that he considered the alleged intimacies of Miss Hix and Dr. Snook their affairs and "none of my business."

Frequently references to like subjects were noisily greeted.

Attorneys seemed to be irritable and the first show of temper by lawyers came during Collison's examination.

Emphasis was placed on the probability of much medical expert evidence being offered and Collison volunteered the belief that often medical men "are mistaken."

But she admitted that about three years ago—it was three years ago that the association of Snook and Miss Hix began—something had weakened the companionship which had always been so strong between them.

Before that time, she said, "he had wanted to have friends in our home. He loved to be with me. We went out often together. He enjoyed taking me around with him to meet his friends, his business and professional associates and the persons whom he knew through his hobby of pistol shooting."

Then she added: "But things changed within the last three years. I lost him—little by little and more and more. It was gradually, just gradually. I knew not how or why. I did not question."

She added that there never had been a quarrel in the seven years of their married life.

"If a hasty word or two occasionally passed between us, it was I who spoke it," she said.

Not only is her sympathy with Dr. Snook now, she said, but it will remain with him.

"Never have I wanted to divorce him and I do not want a divorce now," the interview concluded.

Defense attorneys, questioning prospective jurors yesterday asked if the salesmen would be precluded, if it were shown that Miss Hix experimented with the effects of various drugs—namely not only cocaine but a series of aphrodisiacs—and in the course of her experiments also took these drugs herself.

To Identify Genuine Aspirin

THE increasing use of Bayer Aspirin every year is proof that it has no ill effects. It is the accepted antidote for pain. It always helps; it never harms. Quick relief when you've a headache, or cold; or are suffering from neuralgia or neuritis. Rheumatic pains yield, too, if you'll only give these tablets a chance. But you want genuine Aspirin, so look for the Bayer Cross on every tablet. The box always bears the name Bayer and the word genuine printed in red.

 Bayer is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monacetylsalicylate of Salicylic acid.

Track promoters claim that the fascination of property operators of the track have not given up the attempt to continue the greyhound meeting in the face of the determination of the prosecutor to suppress betting.

Following the arraignment, Charles F. Middletown, president of the promoting organization, announced that dog racing will be resumed Friday night at 8:30 o'clock with a full program of eight races.

However, Prosecutor Marshall declared he would guard against another attempt to continue the meet by ordering Sheriff Tate and his force of deputies to be stationed at the track again Friday night to prevent wagering before it starts.

Confident that the contribution system of betting is illegal, Prosecutor Marshall said he was determined upon stern measures to halt wagering and that further operation of the track under any form of betting system will not be tolerated.

Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Lunsford request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter Ruth Marguerite

Mr. J. Howard Shelton
at the First Baptist Church
Xenia, Ohio
Thursday, August 15, 1929
4:30 p.m.

Miss Lunsford is the eldest daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Lunsford. She received her degree of master of arts in June from Denison University at Granville, Ohio; where she specialized in music. During the summer season she is studying at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music at Cincinnati, specializing in pipe organ and ensemble teaching.

RECENT BRIDE HONORED AT SHOWER THURSDAY.

Mrs. Vernon Hampton, S. Detroit St., was a delightful hostess Thursday evening when she entertained with a miscellaneous shower honoring Mrs. Zach Reynolds (Edith Jackson), a recent bride.

The evening was spent in games and contests, prize winners being Mrs. Lawrence Manor, Mrs. Clifford Hoag, Miss Helen Street, Miss Cora Barnett and little Lura Toms. The girls were presented to the bride.

At the close of the contests a lovely refreshment course was served in the dining room which was beautifully decorated in a pink and white color scheme. The table was centered with gifts for the bride and decorated with pink and white streamers from the chandelier to the corners of the table.

There were thirty guests present, Miss Pauline Kelso, Kennewick, Wash., cousin of the bride, was the only out-of-town guest.

LEARN OF RECENT MARRIAGE HERE.

Announcement is being made here of the marriage of Miss Martha E. Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Peterson, Clinton to Mr. Harold Rickles, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Rickles, 12 Church St., Xenia which took place Saturday, June 29 at Bellevue, Ky., at the home of Mr. Rickles' aunt, The Rev. Mr. Byland, of the Baptist Church, officiated.

Mr. Rickles is a graduate of Xenia Central High School and is employed in Dayton. Mr. and Mrs. Rickles are making their home at 23 Hivling St., Xenia.

Miss Ruth Lunsford To Be August Bride

INTERESTING invitations have been issued to many relatives and friends announcing the coming marriage of Miss Ruth Lunsford, Xena. The invitations read as follows:

Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Lunsford request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter Ruth Marguerite.

Mr. J. Howard Shelton at the First Baptist Church Xena, Ohio

Thursday, August 15, 1929

4:30 p.m.

Miss Lunsford is the eldest daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Lunsford. She received her degree of master of arts in June from Denison University at Granville, Ohio; where she specialized in music. During the summer season she is studying at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music at Cincinnati, specializing in pipe organ and ensemble teaching.

RECENT BRIDE HONORED AT SHOWER THURSDAY.

Mrs. Vernon Hampton, S. Detroit St., was a delightful hostess Thursday evening when she entertained with a miscellaneous shower honoring Mrs. Zach Reynolds (Edith Jackson), a recent bride.

The evening was spent in games and contests, prize winners being Mrs. Lawrence Manor, Mrs. Clifford Hoag, Miss Helen Street, Miss Cora Barnett and Little Lura Toms. The gifts were presented to the bride.

At the close of the contests a lovely refreshment course was served in the dining room which was beautifully decorated in a pink and white color scheme. The table was centered with gifts for the bride and decorated with pink and white streamers from the chandelier to the corners of the table.

There were thirty guests present. Miss Pauline Kelso, Kennewick, Wash., cousin of the bride, was the only out-of-town guest.

LEARN OF RECENT MARRIAGE HERE.

Announcement is being made here of the marriage of Miss Martha E. Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Peterson, Clifton to Mr. Harold Rickles, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Rickles, E. Church St., Xena which took place Saturday, June 29 at Bellevue, Ky., at the home of Mr. Rickles' aunt, The Rev. Mr. Byland, of the Baptist Church, Clifton.

Mr. Rickles is a graduate of Xenia Central High School and is employed in Dayton. Mr. and Mrs. Rickles are making their home at 23 Hixson St., Xena.

ENTERTAINS GUESTS SUNDAY.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Roderick and family, near Yellow Springs, had as their guests Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Ode Roderick, Belfast, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Roderick, Manchester, Mrs. Gay Copeland, Locust Grove, Supt. and Mrs. Charles Vance, Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Burnett and children, Jamestown, Mr. and Mrs. Harley Swisshelm and children of Xenia.

Writes About Children Of Widowers

By LILIAN CAMPBELL
A study of the children of widowers was the subject of a thesis written by Miss Fern Rice, who recently graduated from the school of applied sciences, Western Reserve University, Cleveland.

The study was founded upon cases of widowers who applied to the Cleveland Children's Bureau, the child placing agency of the city, in 1926. There were seventy-six such cases, involving 267 children, one to nine to a family.

Most of the fathers in question were young men, usually foreign born. In more than half the cases they had already had some help from social agencies, usually medical. In the majority of cases, before the year was out, the children's bureau was called on for help in placing the children.

Although Miss Rice thinks her study deals with too few cases to lead to far-reaching conclusions, she declares that the social workers approach the problem of the widowed father with too hopeless an attitude, and do comparatively little for the fatherless child in comparison with what is done for the motherless one.

The father's most successful helpers were the day nurseries and a visiting housekeeper, who came into the home to instruct the older children in its management. She recommends the adoption of a plan developed in Chicago and Toronto, where a visiting housekeeper, trained and supervised by a social agency, is put in charge of the motherless home. Even if the social agency has to pay for the housekeeper, it is less expensive than care of the children in institutions, Miss Rice concludes, with the added advantage of keeping the family together.

Two main causes of mothers' deaths are childbirth and tuberculosis, Miss Rice found. Both are preventable, and Miss Rice says the United States is behind other countries in reducing maternal mortality. She is now a visitor in the children's bureau.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

INTELLIGENT PRAYER — When ye pray, use not vain repetitions, as the heathen do: for they think that they shall be heard for their much speaking. Be not therefore like unto them: for your Father knoweth what things ye have need of before ye ask him.— Matthew 6:7, 8.

GOING TO EXTREMES

Was it through the cross-word puzzle fad and America's introduction to the two-letter word, meaning "Egyptian sun-god," that the vogue for sun-tan has swept the country? The spreading of the gospel of good according to the ultra-violet ray doubtless had something to do with it; and then the costume designers helped the cause along with sun-tan suits, beach overalls, sleeveless dresses and a generous cutting and slashing where no cutting and slashing had been before.

Theoretically the sun-tan craze may promote the general health and happiness of the nation. Exposing one's back to nature's sunlight may be an excellent thing. But, as usual, there are plenty of transgressors against the laws of nature. In our quaint American fashion we go to the limit in the matter of sun-tan, though a case of severe sun-burn is the painful reward. Instead of getting the body gradually accustomed to strong sunlight, the beaches and dunes and meadows are full of foolhardy persons that try to acquire a brown skin in the course of a single week-end.

It cannot be too strongly emphasized, as the doctors point out, that severe sun-burn is dangerous. It should be as carefully treated as scarlet fever. Though creams and powders might better be applied to the skin as preventives, curative oils, or a mixture of baking soda protected by light dressings, will take the sting out of less serious burns while the worst cases should have medical attention.

CHIEF AID TO HIGH SPEED BUSINESS

Universal telephone communication is made possible by the efforts of hundreds of thousands of workers.

In the Bell System alone 100,000 men are employed for maintenance and construction of facilities. These are the men who install equipment, who build and maintain the network of wires along the highways and beneath the streets, who keep the lines open.

The telephone has become so integral a part of modern life that it is a strain on the imagination to visualize a world without it. The high speed business of today and the industrial system that has created new standards of prosperity, would come to a standstill once the lines of telephone communication were broken.

The telephone industry, and the progressive spirit that has determined its destiny, is of untold value in our business and social life, and, perhaps more important, in bringing the different peoples of the world together through personal, vocal contact.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK.—Before departing for India some weeks ago, Maude Adams, former Empire star, refused $50,000 cash to sign her name to a "ghost" written dramatic serial for one of the big magazines.

Pete Mason, the respected colored gentleman at the Empire theatre, who has labored there for over three decades, and is a special favorite of Miss Adams, was appealed to by the publishers to exert his good offices in getting the greatly desired signature. But even Pete was smilingly refused.

Throughout her sweet and gentle artistic life, this star of another generation has preserved in spirit, as well as in letter the ethics and behavior of a gentlewoman.

IN OTHER DAYS

No mention of the Empire is complete without reference to John Ryland, the old sidewalk man, who for two generations opened first the carriage doors and then the motor doors of Empire patrons. He was on duty back in the days of Charles Frohman, when a first night with John Drew, Maude Adams, William Gillette and Ethel Barrymore was a society event that called the Bigwigs in mass from Fifth Avenue, then the center of fashion.

John doesn't open doors any more. His superintendent of the Empire building now and a big man in the part of Harlem known as The Ebony and Ivory Belt.

Every lease in the Empire building carries a clause whereby the tenant is committed to pay John a monthly retainer, according to the size of the rental.

"Ah goes with th' lease," says John.

THE WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

TIMID

A Texas educator, speaking of science and religion, says: "Timid souls who want to stop scientific investigation merely show their lack of faith."

If the truths taught by the church can not stand up under any attacks that scientists may make, then those truths are not real. Then they are not truths at all. The truths of religious teaching, if they are sound, do not need to fear investigation. If religion can not hold its place in the world, then it does not deserve to.

COLLARS

Dr. Lewin, London specialist, says women are getting ahead of men because they do not wear tight collars, and keep their necks free and comfortable. Tight collars impede blood circulation in the brain. Man's fashion thus interferes with good mental work. The idea is not trivial. Bodily comfort is essential to mental concentration. Some day man, who is naturally much more conservative than woman, will devise saner, more comfortable garments for himself. At present he thinks too much of women's clothes and not enough of his own.

POLITICS AND PULPITS

The Methodist Bishop Denny will bear the condemnation of many and the praises of many for his insistence that the church keep out of politics. Opposing a resolution to pledge help to President Hoover in the matter of prohibition, the bishop says: "I do not think it is within the sphere of the church to do such things. I fear it means the ultimate division of the Methodist church, for many will refuse to be dragged as a church into politics."

The business of a preacher is to lift man's eyes to affairs above and beyond the issues of politics or state politics. The preacher loses his great influence and cheapens the quality of his guiding power when he mixes in political affairs.

PREACHING TEMPERANCE

Because it is not the business of the pulpit to lead voting campaigns does not mean that it is not the proper purpose of ministers of the gospel to preach temperance and right living. Concentrating with political intent, upon one method of bringing about temperance and right living is not preaching on a high level.

THE BEST POLITICS

The best politics man can play in his affairs is not to play politics. Life is much easier, much less complex when you put your cards face up on the table and let everybody see what you have and what you are up to. It's much better, when we have a story to tell, to tell it all.

INDUSTRIAL MERGERS SAID TO BE CENTRALIZING POWER

By WILLIAM H. KING — Senator from Utah

(William Henry King was born in Fillmore City, Utah, June 3, 1864. He was educated at Brigham Young academy, the University of Utah and the University of Michigan. He practiced law at Fillmore City and later at Provo City. For three terms he was a member of the territorial legislature of Utah, president upper body one term. In 1894 he was named associate judge of the supreme court of Utah. From 1901 to 1901 he was a member of congress. He was elected to the senate in 1917 and is now completing his second term. He has been a delegate to various Democratic national conventions.)

There has been no sustained effort to enforce the anti-trust laws, and the revolt against consolidations in the United States appears to have subsided.

It is claimed that these great consolidations contribute to the centralizing of political and governmental authority. If the wealth of the country is controlled by a few the political power of the many will be weakened, and the national government will increase its authority, thus affecting local self-government.

The present economic movement, if not curbed, will profoundly affect the entire life of the people of the United States. Mass production has become a fetish.

The secretary of the American Federation of Labor has publicly declared in favor of repealing the anti-trust laws.

The agriculturists of the United States are excluded from the provisions of these enactments, and apparently there is a subsidence of that violent opposition which for years manifested itself against monopolies and trusts.

When in Russia a few years ago, in conversation with Rykov, Trotsky and other leading Bolsheviks, I learned that they looked with unconcealed delight upon the growing power of corporations in the United States and the economic and industrial policies which were creating what some declare to be an oligarchy of wealth. Some of those with whom I spoke predicted that socialism was inevitable where a limited number of corporations or individuals controlled the wealth of the country. It is certain that the American people will not long submit to the present economic situation and to the massing of the great productive resources of the country in the hands of a few monopolistic organizations. There must either be a restoration of the competitive system, or drastic regulations by the government of commerce. The American people will not submit to the control of their economic life by trusts.

There are serious objections to the federal government regulating in an effective manner all corporate inter-state activity. But in my opinion, the people will prefer federal and supervision to corporate and industrial control of our economic life.

Thousands of persons determine to see a certain show but put it off. They are known in the theatre as The Delinquents.

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

There are hundreds of kinds of perfumes—all of them different—all of them lovely in their own way. Some are heavy, almost overpoweringly sweet in fragrance. They are like the burdensome scent of the tuberoses shut into a closed room. One drop is enough of any of these heavy, concentrated scents. Too much of such perfume sprayed on a gown or used on the skin defeats the true purpose of perfume which is to suggest and subtly convey the sense of charm that it has. When a strong, overpowering scent is present, the olfactory nerves become deadened and disappointed.

Use just a little of these fragrances—spray it lightly on with an atomizer or touch a drop behind each ear. Then you will possess a tiny breath of magic, more effective in this case, than a whole roomful. Other perfumes are light—most of the straight flower scents belong in this group, if they are made by expert perfumers. And the delicate bouquet perfume in which several flower fragrances combine are likewise fresh and faint, usually.

Some perfumes are merely spicy or clean-smelling. Lavender and orris and lemon verbena are of this sort. They are the type that is especially favored for soaps and bath salts, cool, quiet, clean scents, suggesting dainty linen, old-fashioned gardens and aristocratic ladies.

The fragrance of pine needles belongs with these, an invigorating, fresh scent so appropriate for the bath yet so far from the other types of perfumes that it can hardly be given on that name.

Half the charm of each perfume is in its associations. More strongly than any other sense the sense of smell seems able to recall the circumstances under which it has been affected in a certain way before. This is why perfume has such a magic and romantic power. If a woman identifies herself with a certain fragrance, that perfume, wherever it is, will suggest her personality at once to those who knew her.

Of course Chiang knows his friends perfectly—and so do the ultra-conservative foreigners at the treaty ports, and especially the Russian exiles, who want nothing less than the spread of socialism to the land of their refuge.

The Bolsheviks, on the Russian side of the frontier, surely know the same thing.

Thus Soviet aggression in China is a constant temptation.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Something more effective than the League of Nations or the Kellogg treaty serves as a war deterrent between Russia and China.

Neither country has the money to put up modern fight.

MINERAL OIL

"Dear Doctor: I am a pharmacist and as such am often asked about the value of certain common remedies. Yesterday I conscientiously told a woman who asked if she could keep on taking mineral oil indefinitely that its long continued use is not advisable, and quoted your articles, which I read religiously. I was promptly laughed down by my husband, who said, 'They want to know your authority for the statement that mineral oil dissolves out a vitamin (A, isn't it?)' Somewhere else I have read that it also irritates the colon. Is this correct? Yours, against the all-wise males, MRS. B."

My authorities are published articles by Burrows and Farr (from the department of surgery, Washington University of Medicine) and Dutcher and Honeywell (from the Pennsylvania State College).

These scientists studied the effect of mineral oil on rats. They found that the rats developed deficiency diseases if it was given over a long enough period. Their conclusions were, that as vitamin A is soluble in oil, the mineral oil leached it from the food and tissues; and as the oil is not absorbed, the vitamin was lost. (Vitamin D is also soluble in oil, so do not worry, also.) While their research work was conducted on rats, since the rat is an animal which is omnivorous, the same as man, they believe it is quite probable that the same effect might be seen in man, although there has been no experiment to prove this. If it does leech the vitamin A from the food and tissues, it certainly will irritate the colon as well as other organs. It does this indirectly, by producing the deficiency diseases. (In small amounts occasionally, it soothes the colon by its lubricating qualities.)

In justice to the mineral oil manufacturers, I must tell you that I took this matter up with Dr. Kellogg of Battle Creek, and Dr. McCollum of Johns Hopkins, and they believe no harm can come to man from the use of mineral oil. Nevertheless, I personally have known of several who have had to stop its continuous use, for even with a diet containing generous amounts of fruits and vegetables and whole grain breads, they never had a formed stool, and did not improve generally. After its use, they were much better. Perhaps these individuals took too much of the mineral oil. In one case I know it to be true. So my advice to those who find it helpful (and many do) is to take it in small doses before retiring, or six to seven hours after a meal, when most of the meal will be absorbed.

There is a form of medication, anyway, that should be used continuously for constipation.

INTELLIGENT PRAYER — When ye pray, use not vain repetitions, as the heathen do: for they think that they shall be heard for their much speaking. Be not therefore like unto them: for your Father knoweth what things ye have need of before ye ask him.— Matthew 6:7, 8.

GOING TO EXTREMES

Was it through the cross-word puzzle fad and America's introduction to the two-letter word, meaning "Egyptian sun-god," that the vogue for sun-tan has swept the country? The spreading of the gospel of good according to the ultra-violet ray doubtless had something to do with it; and then the costume designers helped the cause along with sun-tan suits, beach overalls, sleeveless dresses and a generous cutting and slashing where no cutting and slashing had been before.

Theoretically the sun-tan craze may promote the general health and happiness of the nation. Exposing ones' back to nature's sunlight may be an excellent thing. But, as usual, there are plenty of transgressors against the laws of nature. In our quaint American fashion we go the limit in the matter of sun-tan, though a case of severe sun-burn is the painful reward. Instead of getting the body gradually accustomed to strong sunlight, the beaches and dunes and meadows are full of foolhardy persons that try to acquire a brown skin in the course of a single week-end.

It cannot be too strongly emphasized, as the doctors point out, that severe sun-burn is dangerous. It should be as carefully treated as scarlet fever. Though creams and powders might better be applied to the skin as preventives, curative oils, or a mixture of baking soda protected by light dressings, will take the sting out of less serious burns while the worst cases should have medical attention.

CHIEF AID TO HIGH SPEED BUSINESS

Universal telephone communication is made possible by the efforts of hundreds of thousands of workers.

In the Bell System alone 100,000 men are employed for maintenance and construction of facilities. These are the men who install equipment, who build and maintain the network of wires along the highways and beneath the streets, who keep the lines open.

The telephone has become so integral a part of modern life that it is a strain on the imagination to visualize a world without it. The high speed business of today and the industrial system that has created new standards of prosperity, would come to a standstill once the lines of telephone communication were broken.

The telephone industry, and the progressive spirit that has determined its destiny, is of untold value in our business and social life, and, perhaps more important, in bringing the different peoples of the world together through personal, vocal contact.

NEW YORK.—Before departing for India some weeks ago, Maude Adams, former Empire star refused $50,000 cash to sign her name to a "ghost" written dramatic serial for one of the big magazines.

Pete Mason, the respected colored gentleman at the Empire theatre, who has labored there for over three decades, and is a special favorite of Miss Adams, was appealed to by the publishers to exert his good offices in getting the greatly desired signature. But even Pete was smilingly refused.

Throughout her sweet and gentle artistic life, this star of another generation has preserved in spirit, as well as in letter the ethics and behavior of a gentlewoman.

IN OTHER DAYS

No mention of the Empire is complete without reference to John Ryland, the old sidewalk man, who for two generations opened first the carriage doors and then the motor doors of Empire patrons. He was on duty back in the days of Charles Frohman, when a first night with John Drew, Maude Adams, William Gillette and Ethel Barrymore was a society event that called the Bigwigs en masse from Fifth Avenue, then the center of fashion.

John doesn't open doors any more. He's superintendent of the Empire building now and a big man in the part of Harlem known as The Ebony and Ivory Belt.

Every lease in the Empire building carries a clause whereby the tenant is committed to pay John a monthly retainer, according to the size of the rental.

"Ah goes with th' lease," says John.

TIMID

A Texas educator, speaking of science and religion, says: "Timid souls who want to stop scientific investigation merely show their lack of faith."

If the truths taught by the church can not stand up under any attacks that scientists may make, then those truths are not real. Then they are not truths at all. The truths of religious teaching, if they are sound, do not need to fear investigation. If religion can not hold its place in the world, then it does not deserve to.

COLLARS

Dr. Lewin, London specialist, says women are getting ahead of men because they do not wear tight collars, and keep their necks free and comfortable. Tight collars impede blood circulation in the brain. Man's fashion thus interferes with good mental work. The idea is not trivial. Bodily comfort is essential to mental concentration. Some day man, who is naturally much more conservative than woman, will devise saner, more comfortable garments for himself. At present he thinks too much of women's clothes and not enough of his own.

POLITICS AND PULPITS

The Methodist Bishop Denny will hear the condemnation of many and the praises of many for his insistence that the church keep out of politics. Opposing a resolution to pledge help to President Hoover in the matter of prohibition, the bishop says: "I do not think it is within the sphere of the church to do such things. I fear it means the ultimate division of the Methodist church, for many will refuse to be dragged as a church into politics."

The business of a preacher is to lift man's eyes to affairs above and beyond the issues of politics or state politics. The preacher loses his great influence and cheapens the quality of his guiding power when he mixes in political affairs.

President Chiang, then, has a country which it behooves him to guard stringently against subversive teachings, or he is apt to have rebellion on his hands any day.

Of course Chiang knows his danger perfectly—and so do the ultra-conservative foreigners at the treaty ports, and the Russian exiles, who want nothing less than the spread of socialism to the land of their refuge.

With millions already literally starving in China, and Russia on short rations, obviously both sides would have to buy food, and neither side has the means to do it on a scale to keep any formidable force in the field.

It is true, they might start a just war to drag in other nations, which might reasonably be expected to get to fighting among themselves.

This is the possibility which makes foreign observers of the war in Manchuria relations so anxious.

Still more unfortunately, an adjustment of the Russo-Chinese difference of opinion concerning the management of the Chinese Eastern railroad is not likely to come.

Dr. Sun had his headquarters for some time, in the early period of the revolution, at Shanghai, where I talked with him numerous times, and there is no doubt whatever that he favored proletarianism for his country—not necessarily on the existing Russian model, but similar to it in principle.

President Chiang clearly has a definite plan of his own, and his attitude toward it unquestionably would have been sympathetic.

Dr. Sun was an altruist.

President Chiang seems to be a practical man of action.

Besides, Chiang has lived a great deal among the foreigners at China's treaty ports—the hardest-headed, most conservative set of communities on earth.

He also has had useful support from the swarm of czarist Russian exiles in northern China. The bulk of these exiles are financially hard up, but they made useful soldiers, who want nothing so much as to fight the soviets.

Chiang has a good many regiments of them on the frontier. Nor are all the treaty port Russians an impudent lot. They include a few who antedate the czar's overthrow—men who have been in business in China for years, and are millionaires, some of them.

It doubtless paid them to cultivate Chiang.

All told, these influences possibly have weighed with the new president and modified his extreme views, if he ever had them.

Nevertheless, Dr. Sun's ideas must have left a deep impression

Salmon Cutlets Potato Chips

Sliced Cucumber and Tomato with French Dressing

Devil's Food Cake Coffee

If the men of the house dislike fish on account of the bones, serve fresh halibut steaks or salmon cutlets. Fish is said to be good for the brain, you know, and sea fish has minute quantities of iodine in it also, both excellent reasons why arms should eat one or the other or both occasionally.

Today's Recipes

Salmon Cutlets—two pounds

fresh salmon, one inch thick, one egg, one tablespoon water, three-fourths teaspoon salt, soft bread crumbs finely sifted, lard or good-flavored fat. Wipe off the salmon and remove any bones. Cut in portions large enough for serving. Dip the pieces of fish into the egg which has been well beaten and mixed with the water. Roll the crumbs and place on a pan or board to dry for a short while. Heat the fat in a heavy skillet, put in the cutlets and reduce the heat. Cook slowly for ten to fifteen minutes until the fish is done and golden brown on both sides. Drain on absorbent paper and serve garnished with lemon and parsley.

Devil's Food Cake—Two-thirds cup brown sugar, one egg yolk, one cup chocolate cut up and melted over heat, or one cup cocoas, one-half cup sweet milk.

Cook until smooth and set aside to cool.

One cup brown sugar—one-half cup butter, or half butter and half lard, two eggs, one-half cup milk

(sweet or sour), two and one-half cups sifted flour, one-half teaspoon salt. When mixed add the first part and mix well, then flavor with one teaspoon vanilla and add one teaspoon soda melted in a little hot water. Bake in layers, put together with

FAST EVENTS MARK INAUGURAL AT PARK OPENED THURSDAY

10,000 Fans Present; Whisper Is Winner Of Feature Race

Well, all your correspondent knows this morning is what he reads in the papers, but it appears that dog racing, much talked about, has been started and stopped in Greene County, all in the space of a few hours.

The inaugural was not without its moments, however. The park erected on short order by the group of speculators making up Fairfield Amusement Park, Ltd., was a brilliant setting for a colorful assembly of dog racing fans.

Because it is possible at night, dog racing gives opportunity for many to attend who would not be able to attend an afternoon horse racing program. Among these women seemed to actually predominate, there apparently being more women patrons than men among the customers.

The contrasting colors of their summer attire in the brilliantly lighted grandstand, made an interesting and sporting picture—that is until the minions of the law began to earn their salaries and cast a damper over the proceedings.

If the dog racing plant at Fairfield is not permitted to operate, lots of folks are going to be disappointed. And not the least of these will be that group of ardent promoters who cast considerable money into the making of the plant.

The park was evidently not done on the cheap. It is located in a forty-acre tract within the village limits of Fairfield, providing ample auto parking space around the fence. The whole is brightly illuminated, and all fences and buildings are painted green and white. The grandstand, seating 4,000 and packed to the guards Thursday night, is apparently a much better stand than the one at Springfield Park, near Hamilton. The boxes are in the stand, not along the track fence as at Hamilton.

To new dog race patrons, perhaps the colorful crowd, the mechanical rabbit, the hurdle races and the tense air of excitement that hung over the place in anticipation of the action of the authorities, proved the high points of interest.

The rabbit is the invention of G. W. Heintz, Hamilton, who was manager of the park until Thursday when he left to open a new track at Toronto, Canada, and was succeeded as manager by J. Harrison Smith. Mrs. Heintz has a kennel of dogs racing at Fairfield and was in the money with Horsham in the fourth race. Eugene W. Schmidt, of Cincinnati, who is the "Gene" in "Jack" and "Gene," well-known radio entertainers, started his dog "Ravenshaw" in the third race, but was outside the money. Many sentimental bets went on Gene's dog but his friends say he has better speeders in his kennels than "Ravenshaw."

The rabbit which serves as a lure for the dogs is interesting mechanically. It is operated on a rail on the inside of the track, powered by an electric motor with the speed controlled by an operator in a tower on the roof of the grandstand. The dogs are boxed up at the starting point and the lure circles the track. As it passes them the dogs are released, and they chase the lure until the finish, when it disappears. Heintz is said to have made considerable money with the invention.

COUNTY AUTHORITIES RAID DOG RACE TRACK

The prosecutor and sheriff are holding mechanical rabbits also seized in the raid. Shaigin and Davis are holding bags containing money also confiscated. The money represents the company's percentage of the betting and receipts of the last race.

Oakland Dictator, owned by Mrs. G. W. Heintz, wife of the former manager of the park who invented the mechanical rabbit in use, was a favorite in this event, but was outside the money. Lance Flight, owned by G. Kaley, won the third race over a five-sixteenths course, paying $17 for $2 certificates while Lindy Meadows, in the sixth race, paid $11.80 for $2 tickets.

Prizes on the eighth race, the five-sixteenths mile hurdle, which proved to many to be the most interesting race on the program, were not computed because deputy sheriffs under Prosecutor J. C. Marshall and Sheriff Ohmer Tate, placed track officials under arrest before the pay-off. The race was won by Dash O'Light, from the California Kennels, who showed his superiority easily in taking the hurdles at high speed.

The crowd, while large, was orderly and there was considerable evidence that the majority liked to participate in the wagering.

There were not enough ticket-sellers and pay-off windows to take care of the rush between races and all events were apparently given a heavy play during the evening.

Particularly as many women as men were among the spectators, and the women placed their bets at separate windows adjoining the women's rest room. The sporting crowd made a colorful assemblage, and it was argued the park is one of the most beautiful dog racing plants ever opened in this part of the country. The grandstand seats 4,000 people and was packed while that many more crowded the fence in front of the track. Ample space was provided outside the park for auto parking. Many of the spectators seemed as much interested in the mechanical rabbit that provides the lure for the dog as in the dogs themselves.

FAST EVENTS MARK INAUGURAL AT PARK OPENED THURSDAY

10,000 Fans Present; Whisper Is Winner Of Feature Race

The inaugural dog races at the new plant of Fairfield Amusement Park, Ltd., at Fairfield Thursday, brought forth an interesting racing card before a crowd of excited patrons estimated at approximately 10,000 by park officials.

Robert Kelly, racing secretary, brought together interesting events for the track inaugural, some of the fastest dogs in the country being drawn for the first night's speed events.

Long prices paid in several of the events helped to increase the interest of the fans, the feature being the winning of the inaugural Purse, chief event on the program, over a long course, by Whisper, a jumper from the Sojo Mic Kennels. Whisper paid $26.20 for $2 certificates to win, $7.40 for place tickets and $5.20 for show tickets, the longest prices of the evening.

Ohioan Dictator, owned by Mrs. G. W. Heintz, wife of the former manager of the park who invented the mechanical rabbit in use, was a favorite in this event, but was outside the money. Lance Flight, owned by G. Kaley, won the third race over a five-sixteenths course, paying $17 for $2 certificates while Lindy Meadows, in the sixth race, paid $11.50 for $2 tickets.

Prizes on the eighth race, the five-sixteenths mile hurdle, which proved to many to be the most interesting event on the program, were not computed because deputy sheriffs under Prosecutor J. C. Marshall and Sheriff Ohmer Tate, placed track officials under arrest before the pay-off. The race was won by Dash O'Light, from the California Kennels, who showed his superiority easily in taking the hurdles at high speed.

The crowd, while large, was orderly and there was considerable evidence that the majority liked to participate in the wagering. There were not enough ticket-selling and pay-off windows to take care of the rush between races and all events were apparently given a heavy play during the evening.

Practically as many women as men were among the spectators, and the women placed their bets at separate windows adjoining the women's rest room. The sporting crowd made a colorful assemblage, and it was agreed the park is one of the most beautiful dog racing plants ever opened in this part of the country. The grandstand seats 4,000 people and was packed while that many more crowded the fence in front of the track. Ample space was provided outside the park for auto parking. Many of the spectators seemed as much interested in the mechanical rabbit that provides the lure for the dog as in the dogs themselves.

To new dog race patrons, perhaps the colorful crowd, the mechanical rabbit, the hurdle races and the tense air of excitement that hung over the place in anticipation of the action of the authorities, proved the high points of interest.

The rabbit is the invention of G. W. Heintz, Hamilton, who was manager of the park until Thursday when he left to open a new track at Toronto, Canada, and was succeeded as manager by J. Harrison Smith. Mrs. Heintz has a kennel of dogs racing at Fairfield and was in the money with Horsham in the fourth race Eugene W. Schmitt, of Cincinnati, who is the "Gene" in "Jack" and "Gene", well-known radio entertainers, started his dog "Ravenshaw" in the third race, but was outside the money. Many sentimental bets went on Gene's dog but his friends say he has better speeders in his kennels than "Ravenshaw".

The rabbit which serves as a lure for the dogs is interesting mechanically. It is operated on a rail on the inside of the track, powered by an electric motor with the speed controlled by an operator in a tower on the roof of the grandstand. The dogs are boxed up at the starting point and the lure circles the track. As it passes them the dogs are released, and they chase the lure until the finish, when it disappears. Heintz is said to have made considerable money with the invention.

THREE INSTRUCTORS ADDED TO CEDARVILLE COLLEGE FACULTY

When Cedarville College opens next September for its thirty-sixth year there will be three new professors to greet the students. The college faculty next year will consist of eighteen professors and five assistants.

One of the new instructors is Miss Dorothy Angevine, Pataskala, O., who will be head of the department of English and Latin and will also act as dean of women.

Miss Angevine graduated from Denison University in 1922 with the degree of A. B. She took her graduate work at Ohio State University, receiving the degree of A. M. last June.

Receiving her life certificate from the state of Ohio in 1925, she taught French and Latin in Piquetown High School in 1922-24; was instructor of English, French and Latin in Waverly High School in 1924-27, and taught English and Latin in Lucasville High School in 1927-28. Miss Angevine was chosen Adam Comorosky, 24, stellar outfielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has a batting average of .341, which is unusually brilliant when it is remembered that this is his first full season on the big circuit. The young Polish player, whose faultless fielding has done much to put his team in first place, has batted in 52 runs so far and scored 50 himself. He has made 6 homes, 5 triples and 13 doubles. The home folks in his native town of Swoyersville, Pa., near Wilkes-Barre, are justly proud of him, and to prove it, they sent a delegation of 300 to the last game in New York to present him with a gold watch on behalf of the town.

PRIESTS ASSIGNED

The Rev. Frederick F. Bien, former pastor of St. Augustine's Catholic Church, Jamestown, has been assigned as pastor of a new church to be known as Our Lady of Grace Church, Price Hill, Cincinnati, according to pastoral assignments announced by Archbishop John T. McNicholas, Cincinnati. The Rev. Edward A. McGinty, another former pastor of the Jamestown Church, has been made chaplain of the Ursuline Sisters, Brown County.

NEW AMERICAN LINGO

Young Composer Sees Language Of Music Thanks To Radio And Talkies

AMERICA IS FAST ACQUIRING THE LANGUAGE OF MUSIC!

By ROY J. GIBBONS
Central Press Staff Writer
CHICAGO, July 26.—There's the language of love and the language of the bees as the mammy song writers so often have reminded us. But a new tongue that America is fast acquiring is the language of music, for which it has the radio and talkies particularly to thank, says Hamilton Forrest, young Chicago composer, whose new opera will be given its world premiere by the Chicago Civic Opera Company here next fall.

Young Forrest, hailed as a prodigy, and whose photographs look very much like glorified versions of the late Rupert Brooks, has great hopes for America in a renaissance, or a first birth of art which he sees just around the corner, ushering America into a kind of Golden Age and making it a nation of great operas.

Sung in Americano
These operas will be sung in Americano, too, young Forrest opines, because in the near future, with the land chockful of talkies and the air jammed with radio song waves, the nation by and large simply must go musically-minded as we develop a duo language.

Awakening Art

In this conviction he has scientific support coming from engineers and lights in a technical world, who at a meeting here the other day, were told by Director Richard E. Smiley of the Bremen Tully Institute of Radio Research that the present bombardment of good music over the air by radio was awakening an artistic consciousness in the mass of the American public. "The radio has brought to the attention and appreciation of millions the beauties of good music and other cultural contacts which are bound, as educational advantages to affect for good the intellectual, moral and artistic standards of our present generation," Smiley told his engineering conferees.

Composer Forrest, who has based his opera on the famous old play, "La Dame aux Camélias" by Alexander Dumas, pictures the life of a young French girl known to Forrest, whose tragedy closely paralleled that of the immortal Camille, a role to be portrayed by Mary Garden supported by Charles Hackett.

It was when he was asked why he had used French as the language vehicle for the work instead of English that Forrest gave his reason for employing the foreign tongue and at the same time gave out his statement of hope for America's near future as a nation of great operas.

The Two Languages

"As yet we are only in the experimental state of 'singing' English," he said. "But some day, and not far hence, we will have two languages, just as the French have, for speaking and singing. Then we will become a nation of great operas as we are fundamentally a people of music and the theater. I believe the movies and talkies are moving us forward to that time at a great pace, when we will have a speech eventually to be used for song. The movement is now on foot to further musical drama in our native tongue meets with my favor. But there are still sounds that, if translated into English, would be lost. There is only one play that I have been able to find that 'sings' itself in English. It is one of the works of Edward Knoblock and it will be the subject of my next composition as an all-English score."

There's the language of love and the language of the bees, as the mammy song writers so often have reminded us, but three cheers now for radio and the talkies, "that's culture in them that critters."

Police believe boys are responsible for the series of house-breaking attempts.

Unfamiliarity with a cash register is believed to have frustrated an attempted robbery at a grocery conducted by Frank Alexander at Second and Whiteman Sts., Thursday night.

Gaining entrance to the store by cutting through a rear screen door, the intruder tried to open the cash register but unintentionally pressed the wrong keys and locked it instead. Nothing else was missing, a check revealed. Patrolman Fred Jones investigated.

Sneak thieves have been active in that neighborhood, police disclosed. Lately several reports have been received at Police Headquarters of unsuccessful attempts to invade private residences in that vicinity.

It was when he was asked why he had used French as the language vehicle for the work instead of English that Forrest gave his reason for employing the foreign tongue and at the same time gave out his statement of hope for America's near future as a nation of great operas.

The Two Languages

"As yet we are only in the experimental state of 'singing' English," he said. "But some day, and not far hence, we will have two languages, just as the French have, for speaking and singing. Then we will become a nation of great operas as we are fundamentally a people of music and the theater. I believe the movies and talkies are moving us forward to that time at a great pace, when we will have a speech eventually to be used for song. The movement is now on foot to further musical drama in our native tongue meets with my favor. But there are still sounds that, if translated into English, would be lost. There is only one play that I have been able to find that 'sings' itself in English. It is one of the works of Edward Knoblock and it will be the subject of my next composition as an all-English score."

There's the language of love and the language of the bees, as the mammy song writers so often have reminded us, but three cheers now for radio and the talkies, "that's culture in them that critters."

Police believe boys are responsible for the series of house-breaking attempts.

Unfamiliarity with a cash register is believed to have frustrated an attempted robbery at a grocery conducted by Frank Alexander at Second and Whiteman Sts., Thursday night.

Gaining entrance to the store by cutting through a rear screen door, the intruder tried to open the cash register but unintentionally pressed the wrong keys and locked it instead. Nothing else was missing, a check revealed. Patrolman Fred Jones investigated.

Sneak thieves have been active in that neighborhood, police disclosed. Lately several reports have been received at Police Headquarters of unsuccessful attempts to invade private residences in that vicinity.

NEW AMERICAN LINGO

Young Composer Sees Language Of Music Thanks To Radio And Talkies

HAMILTON FORREST
AMERICA IS FAST ACQUIRING THE LANGUAGE OF MUSIC.

By ROY J. GIBBONS
Central Press Staff Writer
CHICAGO, July 26.—There's the language of love and the language of the bees as the mammy song writers so often have reminded us. But a new tongue that America is fast acquiring is the language of music, for which it has the radio and talkies particularly to thank, says Hamilton Forrest, young Chicago composer, whose new opera will be given its world premiere by the Chicago Civic Opera Company here next fall.

Young Forrest, hailed as a prodigy, and whose photographs look very much like glorified versions of the late Rupert Brooks, has great hopes for America in a renaissance, or a first birth of art which he sees just around the corner, ushering America into the kind of Golden Age and making it a nation of great operas.

Sung in Americano
These operas will be sung in Americano, too, young Forrest, opines, because in the near future, with the land lachockful of talkies and the air jammed with radio song waves, the nation by and large simply must go musically minded as we develop a new language.

Awakening Art

In this conviction he has scientific support coming from engineers and lights in a technical world, who at a meeting here the other day, were told by Director Richard E. Smiley of the Bremer Tully Institute of Radio Research that the present bombardment of good music over the air by radio was awakening an artistic consciousness in the mass of the American public.

"The radio has brought to the attention and appreciation of millions the benefits of good music and other cultural contacts which are bound, as educational advantages to affect for good the intellectual, moral and artistic standards of our present generation," Smiley told his engineering conferees.

Composed Forrest, who has based his opera on the famous old play, "La Dame aux Camélias" by Alexandre Dumas, pictures the life of a young French girl known to Forrest, whose tragedy closely paralleled that of the immortal Camille, a role to be portrayed by Mary Garden supported by Charles Hackett.

It was when he was asked why he had used French as the language vehicle for the work instead of English that Forrest gave his reason for employing the foreign tongue and at the same time gave out his statement of hope for America's near future as a nation of great operas.

The Two Languages

"As yet we are only in the experimental state of 'singing' English," he said. "But some day, and not far hence, we will have two languages, just as the French have, for speaking and singing. ### IDEALS

The religious books of Persia say that when the soul of a good man arrives at the river of death, a beautiful radiant figure meets it and says "I am your true self, your best self, your real self. I am the image of your ideals your strivings, your purposes and your resolves, I am you. Henceforth we merge together into one harmonious life." This parable is a genuine one. We are forever what our ideals make us. An invisible ideal often controls and dominates our entire life. It upholds our spirit in defeat; it makes us oblivious to pain; it turns hindrances into chariots of victory and helps us do the seemingly impossible. What cannon, pounding at the battle-lines of men cannot do, ideals may often accomplish. Dreams and visions and hopes are not so empty as they might seem. They often grow mighty, gather volume and do what cannon could never do.

The Theater

Twenty-five years have passed since the American office of Pathé was opened in a little room overlooking Madison Square.

Down Twenty-Third St. stood the Flatiron Bldg., then the new architectural wonder of New York. Across Fifth Ave. was the Fifth Ave. Hotel and its famous "Amen Corner" where Chauncey Depew and Senator Tom Platt directed the destinies of the Republican party.

Theodore Roosevelt was President. Only a year before the Wright brothers made their first flight. The United States Steel Corp. was but three years old and and then became her stepmother, but who was divorced in Los Angeles this week from Robert Bow, Clara's father, on grounds of cruelty.

In the meantime Clara Bow, whose engagement to Harry Riman was reported recently, is authority for the statement that she has been engaged before and has never been married and she evidently doesn't want her fans to take the present announcement too seriously.

"I shall retire when I am carried feet first out of the theater" said David Belasco, famed producer Thursday, on the occasion of his seventy-fifth birthday. Belasco, who says he has been on the stage since he was eight months old, sleeps but four hours a day.

Twenty Years Ago - '29

Mr. Ernest E. Clevenger, of Indianapolis, will spend the week in Xenia the guest of his father, L. F. Clevenger.

The Orpheum Theater, which has been closed for several weeks, will re-open August 2 with a regular vaudeville program.

Everything is in readiness for the Y. M. C. A. annual picnic at the Neff Park Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ballard, of east of Xenia, left on a trip to the Pacific coast. They will visit the Seattle exposition and expect to spend some time in California and at Yellowstone Park.

Tui Lorraine Bow

Russia and Japan were at war. The first commercial wireless telegram was sent that summer. In the fall the New York subway was opened. The Floradora sextette was the hit of Broadway and Cremo was the best five cent cl-gar.

There was no motion picture business worthy of the name. Two or three pioneers were experimenting and a few empty stores had been equipped with projection machines and seats. Into this uncharted wilderness Charles Pathé sent J. A. Berst with a steamer trunk full of films in 100 to 400 foot lengths.

There was no renting, the films being sold outright. In 1905 Berst marketed "The Runaway Horse", the first and most successful of the "chase" pictures. More than 800 prints of this first "super-special" were sold. The Berst introduced the first newsreel in 1910, called the Pathé News. The company was also the first to use color on film and to produce serials and the first comedies.

The comedies introduced the well-remembered Max Linder. Incidentally, every Pathé picture of the coming season will carry color.

Illustrating this column today is Tui Lorraine Bow, who was once a chum of Clara Bow, the "It" girl

In the meantime Clara Bow, whose engagement to Harry Rishman was reported recently, is authority for the statement that she has been engaged before and has never been married and she evidently doesn't want her fans to take the present announcement too seriously.

"I shall retire when I am carried feet first out of the theater," said David Belasco, famed producer Thursday, on the occasion of his seventy-fifth birthday. Belasco, who says he has been on the stage since he was eight months old, sleeps but four hours a day.

Mr. Ernest E. Clevenger, of Indianapolis, will spend the week in Xenia the guest of his father, L. F. Clevenger.

The Orpheum Theater, which has been closed for several weeks, will re-open August 2 with a regular vaudeville program.

Everything is in readiness for the Y. M. C. A. annual picnic at the Neff Park Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ballard, of east of Xenia, left on a trip to the Pacific coast. They will visit the Seattle exposition and expect to spend some time in California and at Yellowstone Park.

Russia and Japan were at war. The first commercial wireless telegram was sent that summer. In the fall the New York subway was opened. The Floradora sextette was the hit of Broadway and Cremo was the best five cent cl-cent.

There was no motion picture business worthy of the name. Two or three pioneers were experimenting and a few empty stores had been equipped with projection machines and seats. Into this uncharted wilderness Charles Pathé sent J. A. Berst with a steamer trunk full of films in 100 to 400 foot lengths.

There was no renting, the films being sold outright. In 1905 Berst marketed "The Runaway Horse," the first and most successful of the "chase" pictures. More than 800 prints of this first "super-special" were sold. Pathé introduced the first newsreel in 1910, called the Pathé News. The company was also the first to use color on film and to produce serials and the first comedies.

The comedies introduced the well-remembered Max Linder. Incidentally, every Pathé picture of the coming season will carry color.

Illustrating this column today is Tui Lorraine Bow, who was once a chum of Clara Bow, the "It" girl

PERMIT CEMETERY TO VACATE STREETS

An ordinance authorizing the Woodland Cemetery Association to vacate certain streets and alleys in Gatch's Addition was passed by City Commission Thursday night. Passage of the measure was petitioned for by the board on the ground the alleys and streets have never been opened to public use; the city has made no expenditure of money on them and it will not be detrimental to the public to vacate them.

The board some time ago purchased four acres out of the north part of the addition adjoining and immediately south of three and one-third acres of land bought in 1922. In the latter tract the streets and alleys were vacated the same year.

Commission also passed an ordinance ordering closed three alleys on the east side of S. Monroe St., requested in a petition filed by property owners.

SCHACHNE STUDIOS GIVEN CONTRACT

The Schachne Studios Co., Dayton, has been awarded the contract for redecorating the main corridor, second floor corridor and Common Pleas Court room at the Court House. All mural paintings are also to be maintained and brightened up.

The Dayton firm submitted a bid of $3,500. County Commissioners had previously appropriated a sum sufficient to finance the project.
